BUILDING. MASTHEAD.

There are very few occasions when the logotype should appear without the Kribbz blue container.

kribboz®

THE PRIMARY LOCKUP combines the primary logo and tagline. It works for most applications. But give it space. Minimum padding is shown here.

SINGLE LINE LOCKUP

works best over large areas of Kribbz blue — and appearing with little, or no further information, or graphics.

NOT A SWOOSH

The symbol is a support graphic and should be used as such.

THE SYMBOL can be used to create bullet points, graph columns, map markers, et al. Remember, keep it simple.

ONE EXAMPLE is the page marker below. Rotated 90 degrees, the symbol now serves as a directional device.

The following is placeholder text. It's more look and a lot less read. Some options are already baked-in with this model and strategic staircase. The net net, at the end of the day, is to productize cross functional teams. Let's enable out-of-the-box brainstorming, run it up the flag pole, then strategically check the status on the deliverables for a quick win. Who's responsible for the ask? Moving the goalpost deliverables but let's prioritize the low-hanging fruit. Lean into that problem, we need a quick win going forward. Back of the net thinking outside the box is hot right now. Bake in wiggle room. It just needs more cowbell. Ballpark the cost per unit for me, and create spaces to explore what's next.

Let the Seller Beware

When it's time to sell, make the smart choice.

Nowadays, you have options when it comes to selling your home. Real estate agents, iBuyers, who will offer to buy your house directly from you, and listing your house on your own for internet shoppers. But as you'll quickly find out, iBuyers want to get the lowest price, agents want the highest commission, and selling on your own can be hard.

However, when you list with Kribbz, you get all the exposure your house deserves. You don't pay a commission. And you get to watch people compete to buy your property. It all happens in 24 hours, and you end up with an all-cash offer. Then, it's up to you whether to accept, counter, or just move on. No strings attached.

With Kribbz, you have nothing to lose, and a lot of money and time to gain back.
